

Tea Along the Silk Road: Two Years in Post-Soviet Turkmenistan

Rachel Ostrow, Pound Ridge resident and recently returned Peace Corps Volunteer, will deliver a talk about her experience serving with the Peace Corps in Turkmenistan.

Turkmenistan, a country of roughly 5 million people, is notorious for its authoritarian leadership and cults of personality. Despite this reputation, and its borders with Iran and Afghanistan, Turkmenistan is a country rich in traditions and natural resources, with a famously hospitable culture and people.
